FRIED CHICKEN TOO MUCH FOR NEGRO HUNGER STRIKE

Elizabeth, N. J., July 18.—The manner in which Warden Charles W. Dodd of the county jail broke up a hunger strike today may set a useful example, he thinks, to keepers of English prisons who become custodians of suffragettes.

William Turner, a negro prisoner incarcerated last Sunday, sought to gain his liberty by refusing to eat. This morning the negro had been forty-eight hours without food, when Warden Dodd appeared at the cell with a steaming plate of fried chicken and a large section of a juicy watermelon. One sniff and Turner's hunger strike came to an abrupt end.

Any erroneous reflection on the character, standing or reputation of any person, firm or corporation which may appear in the columns of The News will be gladly corrected upon its being brought to the attention of the management.

Obituaries and Resolutions of Respect of less than 100 words will be published free. For all matter in excess of 100 words a charge of one cent per word will be made. Count your words and remit with manuscript.

Working girls of Chicago who are now voters are going to open a campaign to eliminate from the state legislature every member who voted against the fifty-four-hour bill or the minimum wage bill for women.

It is a pretty safe bet that any politician now fighting the amendment to Art. IX, Sec. 9, will be found a candidate for some office next year, and that he will urge his hostility to the corporations as his best qualification. However, it will not work this time for it is not the big corporations that are interested in the fight.

It is indeed gratifying to note the unity that exists among all classes in Oklahoma in boosting the Dry Farming Congress that will be held at Tulsa in the fall. This meeting is one of great importance to the state and worthy of support. An Oklahoma county in competition with a good share of the civilized world which wins a prize can indeed boast of its resources and be given full credence by the outside world.

Of course California has a climate that is an improvement over that of some other sections, but T. B. Lusk, who visited the News men today, says that part of this reputation is made by the citizens of that state. They are all boosters and never meet a man, whether citizen or stranger without remarking on how fine the weather is. The man who dares to suggest that it could be improved on is looked on as a knocker and is shunned as an undesirable. A cartoon in the Saturday Evening Post of this week bears out this statement, showing a number of indignant citizens with guns chasing out men who dared to criticize conditions there. However, there is a good lesson in this for all other communities. They should always insist that everyone look on the bright side of things.

HARRISON PLEASED WITH ADA NORMAL

This morning Luther Harrison, editor of the Wewoka Democrat, visited the normal for the first time and completely captivated the faculty and students with an address of ten minutes. Mr. Harrison has always been a warm friend of the Ada school and after his visit expressed himself to the News reporter as being more impressed than ever with the normal, and the character of work being done. The support of a man with Mr. Harrison's wide acquaintance and influence is certainly something to be appreciated.

MRS. KRIEGER WRITES FROM LOS ANGELES

Los Angeles, July 12, 1913.

Editor Evening News:

Well we did not quite get cooked crossing the desert but we traveled two days and nights almost in fire, or it felt like it any way. We went from Deming to Phoenix one night and day satisfied us. It was 120 in the shade, 140 in the sun. Talk about being cooked, well, I guess yes. From there we came to Los Angeles. We came to the daughter of Mr. A. T. Trimm, Mrs. H. Harlacher. This afternoon we will go to visit Hon. Duke Stone as we promised him we would and tomorrow we will visit the beach with Mr. and Mrs. Harlacher as Mr. Harlacher's business is such that he can leave it only on Sunday. Friday Mrs. Harlacher and myself went out to the ostrich farm. The guide told us all about the lives and habits of the birds. They name them as they mate but once in their life time they had a new married pair on their honeymoon. A pen of old maids and old bachelors. The newly married pair they called them President and Mrs. Wilson. Then we went to the pigeon farm where there are thousands of them. Oranges are almost a failure here. There are very few growing; they have not got over their freeze last winter.

On the 14th we start on our homeward trip. We will stop and see the Grand Canyon of Colorado. From there we go to Stanley, New Mexico, and we will visit Mr. and Mrs. E. Clifton a few days and rest up again. We are both well and getting along fine. Will write you again after we see the Grand Canyon.

KITTED KRIEGER.

M. E. Harris, superintendent of the orphans' home at Cornish, was in the city today soliciting aid for the home. He is doing a great work for the orphans of Oklahoma and his home merits the support of the charitably inclined.

MULHALL MAKES MORE LOBBY DISCLOSURES

Washington, July 17.—Martin Mulhall continued his testimony before the senate lobby committee today, detailing his activities among congressmen. Some of the letters introduced dealt with former President Roosevelt's endorsement of his candidacy of Taft, then secretary of war.

In a letter to Schmiedtman, secretary of the manufacturers, in April, 1908, Mulhall quoted the late Vice President Sherman as saying that the fight then raging on Speaker Cannon was a "dirty deal by the White House against the speaker."

"Watson states," wrote Mulhall, "that the president (Roosevelt) is moving heaven and earth to nominate Taft and that he's willing to sacrifice the Sherman law and every law to please the trusts and please Wall street so that he can get their support for his candidacy."

Mulhall also wrote of attending a meeting the Foraker house, composed of senators "who will oppose the president and his policies at the Chicago convention."

"The opposition to the president," Mulhall continued, "intends to let no legislation through that he wishes at this session of congress and intends to fight the Taft forces to a finish."

Other letters detailed the fight on various congressmen.

"We have sent special people after Townsend in Michigan," said one.

"On May 6 of the same year, Mulhall wrote to Schmiedtman that he had called on Senators Carter and Hemenway, Senator Aldrich's secretary and others and was "assured by all that it mattered not what the president attempted to do, there was not going to be any unfair legislation passed through the senate this session. On the house side I called on Murdock, Campbell, Nelson and others and gave them our reasons why no injunction legislation should be passed."

The letter detailed a conversation with Senator Beveridge, in which the Indiana senator declared himself for the injunction bill, the amendment of the Sherman law and the child labor bill. Mulhall wrote that he reported Beveridge's sentiments to Hemenway.

"Hemenway said Beveridge was bluffing and assured me that no such legislation would be passed by the senate."

"On May 7 Mulhall wrote Schmiedtman quoting Watson to the effect that "all this scare about the Sherman law amendment and injunction bills was gotten up by himself and the speaker to hood the president with letters and stop tariff dickering at this session."

American Commission Coming Home.

London, July 15.—The American commission appointed to investigate agricultural finance, production, distribution and co-operation in Europe, has completed its tour and today the commissioners sailed for home. In Austria, France, England and the other countries visited the commissioners were received with every courtesy, government officials, bankers, heads of agricultural societies and others placing at their disposal every possible facility that would aid the Americans in their investigation. The commissioners have gathered a mass of facts and figures which will be compiled in an official report and made public after their arrival home. The commissioners believe that the information they have gathered in respect to rural credit systems, methods of co-operation and the manner in which farm products are marketed in Europe will be of particular interest and benefit to the people of the United States.

Motor Transport Conference.

London, July 13.—Numerous delegates from Canada, Australia and other parts of the empire are in London for the Imperial Motor Transport conference. Today the delegates were entertained at a luncheon presided over by Prince Arthur of Connaught, who has accepted the presidency of the conference. Tomorrow the delegates will attend the opening of the industrial motor vehicle exhibition at Olympia.

The regular sessions of the conference will be opened Monday and continued through the week. Many questions of wide interest and importance are scheduled for consideration. These will include road transport in cities, the question of fuel supply, the problem, the relations between British manufacturers and buyers overseas, and rural transport and the uses of the motor to the agriculturist.

Leschetizky School of Music

Mrs. Edson MacMillan will open a studio, down town, as soon as arrangements can be completed, for instruction in Piano and Voice. Leschetizky technique applied to all piano work.

The Seppings system used with small children in musical kindergarten.

Extra time given without extra charge to those taking work during vacation. Phone No. 167.

Notes From the Labor World.

The Cigarmakers' International Union has 50,000 members.

The Western Canada Postal Clerks' Association has organized with over 800 members.

Plans are being made to affiliate the 17,000 union miners of Iowa with the State Federation of Labor.

The latest reports show that more than 50,000 men are employed as coal miners in the Pacific Northwest.

The Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees of America will hold its biennial convention in Salt Lake City in September.

The first lodge of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen was organized by eleven Erie Railroad firemen at Port Jervis, N. Y., in 1872.

The International Association of Machinists has begun a movement for the establishment of the eight-hour workday for machinists throughout the country.

An increase of wages of from $2 to $6 a month has been granted its telegraph operators, tower men and agents by the Erie railroad.

A million dollar hotel for working girls and women employed in downtown stores is the aim of a movement begun by the Chicago Chapter, D. A. R.

The Chamber of Deputies, at Montevideo, Uruguay, has recently approved a bill providing for an eight-hour workday for all persons in the government employ.

A law that has just gone into effect in Ohio requires every employer of five or more persons to pay his employees at least twice a month, thus abolishing the custom of monthly pay days.

After being unsuccessful in three attempts to have John Mitchell, former president of the United Mine Workers, made State Labor Commissioner, Governor Sulzer of New York has appointed James M. Lynch, president of the International Typographical Union to the position.

Atlantic City will be a gathering place for many prominent labor leaders July 21. The executive council of the American Federation of Labor will meet there that day and also the executive councils of the railroads, building trades, union label and metal trades departments of the federation. The meeting will discuss plans for the next annual convention of the American Federation of Labor, which is to be held in Seattle in November. The interests of the labor organizations as affected by the so-called lobby disclosures at Washington will also come up for discussion.

Three Wars' Celebration.

Steubenville, O., July 18.—Elaborate plans are nearing completion for the three wars' celebration to be held here next week. The celebration is intended primarily to commemorate the day the Confederate flag was carried through this city by a part of Gen. Morgan's command. Steubenville was the most northern point reached by

01 RANCH USES OK CEMENT

The Oklahoma Portland Cement Co. has a large photo of the 101 ranch, which is of unusual interest, in view of the fact that a great quantity of OK cement was used there. Some of the larger houses, walks curbing and three silos are built of the Ada material and the owners are preparing to build eight more silos as soon as possible. The ranch is something beautiful to look upon and the cement adds no little to the ultimate result.

Mistakes in Names.

The man who asked the bookseller for Professor Drummond's "Nux Vomica" when his mistress had sent him for "Pax Vobiscum," must have been a sort of mental cousin to the errand boy who asked over the publishing house counter for "The Little Monster," by the author of "The Widow's Thumbs." The man behind the counter knew his Barrie sufficiently well to give him "The Little Minister." It was probably either a sufragette or a house of commons policeman who inquired for "She Swoops to Conquer," when Goldsmith's masterpiece under a somewhat similar title was required, and it is, at least, as probable that the man who asked for "The History of the Uninhabited Islands of the Pacific, by One of the Natives," is returning from a missionary meeting.

A country clergyman of an evangelical turn of mind wrote to a London publisher requesting him to forward a copy of a recent publication entitled "New and Contrite Hearts." After the lapse of a week the publisher's clerk replied "we regret to be unable to supply 'New and Contrite Hearts,' as we are out of stock ourselves and there is none to be obtained in the city!"

The small boys who go from one publishing house to another picking odd orders for some bookseller or armed with canvas bag into they thrust their gleanings, are responsible for many breaks. One of them puzzled completely the expert behind the counter when he asked for "Many Sins of Judge Hawkins." Light only dawned when he tumbled to the fact that for "Many Sins" the word "Reminiscences" should be substituted. But even this does not take the prize, for another youthful genius asked for "The Social Evolution of Kiddies!" Still another asked for "Hetty Homer," evidently thinking he was in quest of a novel. He had to be sent back for instructions, and returned with a note asking for "Ecce Homo."—Philadelphia Ledger.

HARRIS CASE ALMOST OVER

By the time this paper reaches its readers, it is probable that the Harris case will be in the hands of the jury. The argument was opened Thursday evening for the prosecution by A. M. Croxton, deputy county attorney. He was followed by Judge Fenwick of Tishomingo for the defense. He concluded his argument this morning about 10 o'clock and was followed by Leslie Maxey, who addressed the jury four hours. T. P. Holt closed for the defense and J. W. Bolen is making the final argument for the state.

Cotton Insect Pests.

The cotton crop of 1912 was seriously affected by insect pests. The growers in a large section of the cotton belt had to contend with the boll weevil, while in some sections the crop suffered damage from cotton caterpillars, grass worms, and other pests to a greater extent than in former years. Drought in 1909 and 1910, particularly in Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana, checked the development of the boll weevils in their early stages, and killing frost followed by warm weather in the latter year greatly reduced their numbers. These conditions resulted in a great reduction in the number of weevils in 1911. The season of 1912, however, was again favorable to the weevil, and there was a considerable extension of the area subject to this pest. Owing to the general dissemination of the information obtained by the federal and state departments of agriculture the destructiveness of the boll weevil is being greatly reduced.

The quantity of cotton ginned from the crop of 1912 prior to September 1 was 730,935 bales, the largest amount for any year since the inauguration of these reports by the Census Bureau, with the single exception of 1911 when the number of bales was 771,297. By Oct. 18, 1912, 51 per cent of the crop had been ginned, as compared with 49.9 per cent in 1911, 46.9 per cent in 1910, 54.9 per cent in 1909, 48.1 percent in 1908, and 40 per cent in 1907. By November 14 slightly more than three-fourths of the crop had been ginned. There was considerable difference, however, among the several states in the proportion of the total amount ginned to specified dates. More than two-thirds of the total crop of Texas had been ginned by October 18, while Tennessee showed less than one-third.

Some idea of the importance of cotton production in the United States from an economic standpoint may be had when it is considered that next to corn, cotton is the most valuable crop grown in the country, and that cotton in its unmanufactured condition is the largest single item of export. The value of the cotton crop of 1909 represented 15 per cent of the total value of all the crops of the country. The value of cotton exported during the fiscal year 1912 amounted to $365,549,271 or 26.1 per cent of the total value of all articles of domestic merchandise exported during the year. It exceeded the amounts for iron and steel manufactures, meat and dairy products, and breadstuffs combined.

These three groups ranking next in importance among articles exported. These large exports, combined with the more than five million bales consumed in domestic manufacture, strikingly indicate the importance of cotton in the economic affairs of the nation.

Altogether the greatest cotton-growing section in the world, both in extent and in production, is located in the south-central and southeastern parts of the United States. It includes small portions of Virginia, Kentucky, Missouri, Kansas and New Mexico, and the states lying to the south. This cotton-producing area is about 1,500 miles long, from east to west, and about 500 miles wide. Within the past few years the cultivation of cotton has been undertaken in Arizona and California on irrigated land with considerable success, especially in the latter state. The growing of more valuable crops, however, will likely prevent any appreciable increase in the production in these states.

Numerous efforts have been made in recent years to introduce the cultivation of cotton in new countries and to increase the production in others. In some instances failure has attended these efforts, and in only a few cases does there seem a probability of making a material addition to the world supply of commercial cotton. The largest addition, however, has been furnished by the United States, where the acreage devoted to this crop can be and will be largely increased whenever the price conditions warrant it. It would appear from the information at hand that the greatest increase in the growing of cotton in foreign countries may be expected in Asiatic Russia, India and Egypt in which last named country irrigation works of magnitude have been projected, some of them being under construction.

One-Sixth of Our Population Go to Moving-Picture Shows.

In the August American Magazine, in the department called "The Interpreter's House, appears an interesting account of a thorough investigation of the moving-picture business recently made in Cleveland, Ohio. The following extract presents some important facts showing the general trend of the business:

"There are in Cleveland one hundred and thirty-one movies, with a seating capacity of 62,442. The statistics of attendance are interesting. During the one-round tour of the investigation 3,245 children were counted, and over half of them, or 4,290, were unaccompanied. About 115,000 people—men, women and children—daily attend the motion pictures—one-sixth of the population of Cleveland. This is for weeks days, and counts all performances, afternoon and evening. There is no way of estimating the 'repeaters.' On Sundays and holidays about 200,000, or one-third the total population, attend. A residence canvass of ten families in fifteen different neighborhoods showed that on an average over half of all the families visited picture shows more than once a week. And when you think that Cleveland figures are probably pretty representative for the whole United

Mother's Advice To Her Daughter

A Real Live Doll to Fondle Is Woman's Greatest Happiness.

One of the most important matters about which women concern themselves is their future status as a grandmother. And she is wisdom itself who knows of or learns of that famous remedy, Mother's Friend. This is an external application for the abdominal muscles and breasts. It certainly has a wonderful influence, allays all fear, banishes all pain, is a most grateful encouragement to the young, expectant mother, and permits her to go through the period happy in mind, free in body and thus destined to anticipate woman's greatest happiness as nature intended she should. The action of Mother's Friend makes the muscles free, pliant and responsive to expansion. Thus all strain and tension upon the nerves and ligaments is avoided, and, in place of a period of discomfort and consequent dread, it is a season of calm repose and joyful expectation.

There is no nausea, no morning sickness, no nervous twitching, none of that constant strain known to so many women. Hence Mother's Friend is really one of the greatest blessings that could be devised. This splendid and certain remedy can be had of any druggist at $1.00 a bottle, and is sure to prove of inestimable value, not only upon the mother, but upon the health and future of the child. Write to Bradford Regulator Co., 132 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for their book to expectant mothers.

THE MEXICAN SITUATION

WASHINGTON AWAITS ARRIVAL OF AMBASSADOR WILSON WITH EAGERNESS.

Washington, July 17.—The sensational story that a foreign government has asked this country what its course in Mexico will be and whether this government will be responsible for the outcome of the Mexican situation was officially exploded today.

The explanation which was vouchsafed at the White House and at the State Department of the recent meeting of diplomats in the City of Mexico and of the alleged representations by a foreign country accounts for the calm view which the administration takes of the Mexican situation.

The official view of the recent developments is that a few days ago four representatives of foreign governments in the City of Mexico advised their respective governments of their impressions of the state of affairs in that country, and that one of the governments so advised transmitted to the American government the information given it by its Minister in Mexico.

According to the official version, there was no representations, no inquiry and no intimation from any foreign government as to the duty or policy of this country toward the Huerta regime. The action of the four foreign Ministers in Mexico is ascribed to an excusable feeling of nervousness on the part of foreigners sitting over the Mexican political volcano.

At the White House the summoning of Ambassador Wilson is treated in the most delicate way. President Wilson, it was said, is seeking a fuller light on the details of the Mexican situation than has been conveyed in Ambassador Wilson's letters and dispatches, but it was said that perhaps the Ambassador has valid reasons for his course.

At the state department it was learned that it is assumed Ambassador Wilson must have had full knowledge of the meeting and plans of the foreign Minister in Mexico, yet the Ambassador failed to advise the department of this development.

From intimations from various official sources the impression is unavoidable that the darkness in the Mexican situation which President Wilson hopes to have dispelled by the personal conference with Ambassador Wilson relates not so much to the revolutionary status in that troubled country as to points in the stewardship of Ambassador Wilson himself that remain to be cleared up.

An effort to learn whether the Ambassador will return to Mexico after his conference with the President resulted in the vague answer, "That depends on the result of the conference." It was also officially admitted that Bayard Hale, who is making newspaper investigations in Mexico is making private and unofficial reports to President Wilson and has sent several telegrams.

The department of state today received further detailed information as to the progress of the revolution. The Consul General at Tampico reports that he is in daily communication with Dario Sanchez and Otto Winters and everything is being done to hasten their liberation. Nothing serious is proven against either, but the slow proceedings of a military court have occasioned delay.

A report reaching City of Mexico is to the effect that the Carranzista army has been completely defeated in Coahuila and a brother of the leader killed. From the south reports indicate improved conditions continue to be received.

Dissensions are reported among the bands of marauders in the neighborhood of Proterera, but the American plantations in the vicinity have not as yet been molested.

A telegram from Durango, dated July 9, has been received at the state Department indicating deplorable conditions as a result of the occupation of the city by the revolutionary forces under Gen. Urbina. Citizens without distinction of nationality are being placed under arrest and held for ransom. Among these the archbishop is mentioned.

The northern portion of the state of San Luis Potosi is reported in the possession of the revolutionists, including control of the railroad to the north of Wadley.

THE Melting of Molly

By MARIA THOMPSON
DAVIES

Copyright, 1912, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company

SYNOPSIS

The teller of the story, Molly Carter, a young widow, awaiting the return of Al Bennett, an old flame, who is now a distinguished diplomat, tries to reduce weight. Her physician, adviser and next door neighbor is Dr. John, a widower and father of young Billy, whom Molly loves.

Molly is surprised at play with Billy by Judge Wade, who is the most dignified and able man in Hillsboro. Billy comes over from next door with his father.

Hillsboro receives a visit from Ruth Chester, a friend of Bennett, and Molly finds her delightful. Molly goes to the city for an outfit of clothing.

But at whom do you suppose she looked? Not me! Miss Chester! That was cold tub No. 2 for that day, and I didn't react as quickly as I might, but when I did I was in the proper glow all over. When I revived and saw the lovely pale blush on her face I felt like a cabbage rose beside a teabud. I was glad Aunt Adeline came out on the porch just then so I could go in and tell Judy to bring out the iced tea and cakes. When I came from the kitchen I stepped into my room and took out one of Alfred's letters from the desk drawer and opened it at random, as you do the Bible when you want to decide things, and put my finger down on a line with my eyes shut. This was what it was:

"—and all these years I have walked the world, blindfolded to its loveliness with the blackness that came to me when I found that you!"

I didn't read any more, but shoved it back in a hurry and went out on the porch, comforted in a way, but feeling some more in sympathy with Mrs. Johnson than I had before Aunt Bettie and her guest from Washington had interrupted our algebraic demonstration on the man subject. You can't always be sure of the right answer to X in any proposition of life; that is, a woman can't!

And, furthermore, I didn't like that next hour much, just as a sample of life, for instance. Aunt Bettie had got her joining together humor well started, and right there before my face she made a present of every nice man in Hillsboro to that lovely, distinguished, strange girl who could have slipped through a bucket hoop if she had tried hard. I had to sit there, listen to the presentations, watch her drink two tall glasses of delicious tea full of sugar and consume without fear three of Judy's puffy cakes, while I crumbled mine in secret over the banisters and set half the glass of tea out of sight behind the wistaria vine.

It was bad enough to hear Aunt Bettie just offer her Tom, who, if he is her own son, is my favorite cousin, but I believe the worst minute I almost ever faced was when she began on the judge, for I could see from Aunt Adeline's shoulder beyond Miss Chester how she was enjoying that, and she added another distinguished ancestor to his pedigree every time Aunt Bettie paused for breath. I couldn't say a word about the fish, and Aunt Adeline wouldn't. I almost loved Mrs. Johnson when she bit off a thread viciously and said "Humph!" as she rose to start the tea party home.

LEAF FOURTH.

Monument or Trousseau?

THAT night I did so many exercises that at last I sank exhausted in a chair in front of my mirror and put my head down on my arms and cried the real tears you cry when nobody is looking. I felt terribly old and ugly and dowdy and widowed. It couldn't have been jealousy, for I just love that girl. I want most awfully to hug her very slimness, and it was more what she might think of poor dumpy me than what any man in Hillsboro, Tenn., or Paris, France, could possibly feel on the subject that hurt so hard. But then, looking back on it, I am afraid that jealousy sheds feathers every night so you won't know him in the morning, for something made me sit up suddenly with a spark in my eyes and reach out to the desk for my pencil and check book. It took me more than an hour to figure it all up, but I went to bed a happier, though in prospects a poorer woman.

It is strange how spending a man's money makes you feel more congenial with him, and as I sat in the cars on my way to the city early the next morning I felt nearer to Mr. Carter than I almost ever did, alive or dead. After this I shall always appreciate and admire him for the way he made money, since, for the first time in my life, I fully realized what it could buy. And I bought things!

First I went to see Mme. Courtier for corsets. I had heard about her, and I knew it meant a fortune. But that didn't matter. She came in and looked at me for about five minutes without saying a word, and then she ran her hands down and down over me until I could feel the flesh just crawling off me. It was delicious!

Then she and two girls in puffs and rats came in and did things to a corset they laced on me that I can't even write down, for I didn't understand the process, but when I looked in that long glass I almost dropped on the floor. I wasn't right and I wasn't stiff and I looked—I'm too modest to write how lovely I really looked to myself. I was spellbound with delight.

Next I signed the check for three of those wonders with my head so in the clouds I didn't know what I was doing, but I came to with a jolt when the prettiest girl began to get me into that black taffeta bag I had worn down to the city. I must have shrunk the whole remaining pounds I had felt obliged to lose for Alfred and Ruth Chester from the horror I felt when I looked at myself. The girl was really sympathetic and said with a smile that was true kindness: "Shall I call a taxi for madame and have it take her to Klein's? They have wonderful gowns by Rene all ready to be fitted at short notice. Really, madame's figure is such that it commands a perfect costume now." Men do business well, but when women enter the field they are geniuses at money extracting. I felt myself already clothed perfectly when that girl said my figure "commanded" a proper dress. Of course Klein pays Mme. Courtier a commission for the customers she passes right on to him. The one for me must have looked to her like a real estate transaction.

I spent three days at the great Klein store, only going to the hotel to sleep and most of the time I forgot to eat. Mme. Rene must have been Mme. Courtier's twin sister in youth, and Mme. Tellers in the hat department was the triplet to them both. When women have genius it breaks out all over them like measles and they never recover from it; those women had the confident kind. But I know that old Rene really liked me, for when I blushed and asked her if they had a good beauty doctor in the store she held up her hands and shuddered.

"Never, madame, never pour vous. Ravissante, charmante—it is to fool. Neval! Jamais, jamais de la vie!" I had to calm her down, and she kissed my hand when we parted.

I thought Klein was going to do the same thing or worse when I signed the check which would be good for a house and lot and motorcar for him, but he didn't. Only he got even with me by saying, "And I am delighted that the trousseau is perfectly satisfactory to you, Mrs. Carter."

That was an awful shock and I hope I didn't show it as I murmured, "Perfectly, thank you."

The word "trousseau" can be spoken in a woman's presence for many years with no effect, but it is an awful shock when she first really hears it. I felt funny all afternoon as I packed those trunks for the 5 o'clock train.

Yes, the word "trousseau" ought to have a definite surname after it always and that's "My loyalty dragged poor Mr. Carter out into the light of my conscience. The thinking of him had a strange effect on me. I had laid out the dream in dark gray blue rajab, tailored almost beyond endurance, to wear home on the train and had thrown the old black taffeta bag across the chair to give to the hotel maid, but the decision of the session between conscience and loyalty made me pack the precious blue wonder and put on once more the black rags of remembrance in a kind of panic of respect.

I would jots rather have bought poor Mr. Carter the monument I have been planning for months to keep up conversation with Aunt Adeline than wear that dress again. I felt conscience reprove me once more with loyalty looking on in disapproval as I buttoned the old thing up for the last time, because I really ought to have stayed over a day to buy that monument, but, to tell the truth, I wanted to see Billy so desperately that his "sleep place" above my heart hurt as if it might have prickly heat break out at any minute.

So I hurried and stuffed the gray-blue darling in the top tray, tapped old black taffeta around my waist and belted it in with a black belt off a new green linen I had made for morning walks down to the drug store on the public square, I suppose. That is about the only morning dissipation in Hillsboro that I can think of, and it all depends on whom you meet how much of a dissipation it is.

Texas to Vote on Amendments.

Austin, Tex., July 18.—At a general election tomorrow several proposed amendments to the Constitution of Texas will be submitted to the voters of the state for their adoption or rejection. The amendment of greatest importance is one authorizing improvement districts to issue bonds by a majority vote instead of two-thirds as at present, and permitting bonds to be issued for the construction of public warehouses. Another amendment proposes to empower the legislature to prescribe salaries for State, county, district and precinct officers, abolishing the fee system.

BEARCATS WIN FROM BOY SCOUTS

Ada now boasts of a crack ball team among the juveniles known as the Bearcats. Said Bearcats crossed bats with the Boy Scouts Thursday afternoon and after an exciting game of ten innings won by a score of 8 to 7 thereby lowering the colors of the scouts for one of the very few times they have been defeated either at home or abroad. Another contest will be had in a few days at which time the Scouts will make a determined effort to regain their lost laurels.

For the Bearcats in Thursday's game Earl Jones pitched until the first half of the fifth inning and Carl Durham pitched until the first half of the ninth when Jones again took his place in the box.

Hardy Nettles, the star third baseman for the Bearcats, hit three home runs off the Scouts. The game was won largely by the crooked balls which Jones and Durham threw, also the home run hits of Nettles. The Bearcats all did good batting. This was the first time the Bearcats were on the diamond together.

Sherman Pioneer Dies.

Sherman, Tex., July 17.—Capt. W. H. Ely, 74 years of age, one of Sherman's wealthy pioneer citizens, died this afternoon. He was a captain in the Southern army, and in the days of Sherman was a prominent tractor. He built the Grayson county courthouse and other large buildings in North Texas. His body will be buried in West Hill cemetery Friday afternoon at 5 o'clock by the side of his wife, who died about a year ago. He is survived by several grown sons and daughters.
